Ananda Marga (the Path of Bliss) is a spiritual and social movement founded in India in 1955 by Shrii Shrii Anandamurti (P.R. Sarkar). The mission of Ananda Marga is to help individuals achieve self-realisation and to build a social structure in which the physical, mental and spiritual needs of all people can be fulfilled.

Ananda Marga contributes to the process of individual development by providing instruction in meditation, yoga and related practices on a non-commercial basis.

Ananda Marga works for the creation of a better society through social service programs in the fields of education, disaster relief, community development and health.

Ananda Vanii (New Years Message 2002)

"One need not run about in the world to find Him who is contained within the jewel-case of one's existential feeling. One can easily attain Him if only one searches within."

"To forget the brightest jewel of the innner world and then vainly search for the source of light in the outer would is indeed a waste of time! Shiva says, why should people waste their time in this way? Why should people throw the food from thier hands and then beg for alms from door to door? His advice is: proceed towards the inner world.. deeper..still deeper..and still deeper.

New Swing Guru

You Dada Man!

His name is Dada. He wears a flowing orange robe, and his long, black hair and wispy Fu Manchu mustache set off the beatific expression on his face. From his delicate 5'4", 140-pound frame comes a soft voice serenely imploring his listener to "surrender to the supreme." He also gives his four-iron a good belt.

No, Dada isn't a character in an upcoming sequel to Caddyshack. He is the latest, most improbable -- but perhaps most authentic -- guru in pro golf. His students include Doug Dunakey, Catrin Nilsmark and Jesper Parnevik. "I help golfers become better players by becoming better people," says Dada.

A 41-year-old monk from Iloilo, a city of 310,000 in the central Philippines, Dada Atmacedanananda describes himself as an "elder brother" in Ananda Marga, a nondenominational organization that promotes yoga, meditation and good works. Before his current assignment -- disaster relief for hurricane victims in the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida -- Dada spent nine years establishing orphanages and clinics for children in Romania during the regime of communist dictator Nicolae Ceausescu.

Four years ago Dada was approached by officials from the Swedish Sports Federation, who were interested in enhancing athletic performance through yoga and meditation. After Dada worked with badminton players and wrestlers, Swedish golf officials sought him out. Last year Parnevik invited Dada to spend several days at his home in Jupiter, Fla.

Dada does not seek remuneration for his counsel but will accept contributions to his organization. Along with his donation Parnevik showed Dada how to hit a ball for the first time and kicked in eight MacGregor VIP irons. ("The kind Jack Nicklaus used," Dada says proudly.) Dada has played or practiced a half-dozen times, and he intends to find a place to hit balls on the farm he lives on in Marshall, N.C., with 35 other members of Ananda Marga.

Two weeks ago Dada attended his first tournament, the Greater Greensboro Chrysler Classic. "I studied the people who were walking, and they studied me," he says, laughing. "The pros put too much pressure on themselves. It creates a mental imbalance. The key is to surrender to the supreme being."

Coming into the tournament, Dunakey had missed the cut in all five Tour events he had played and become chronically negative, but 15 minutes with Dada did wonders. Dunakey tied for fifth and won $109,500. "I figured, What have I got to lose?" Dunakey says. "There's no doubt that Dada helped me. He pointed out how much I was relating my performance to money and how, instead of feeling sorry for myself, I should realize how lucky I am. He gave me breathing exercises and told me to stay in touch. I intend to."

Dada is planning a trip to the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach, where he expects to have more contact with the pros. "Because of my time with Doug," says Dada, "the other caddies are telling their players about me."

So he's got that going for him. Which is nice.

THE CHANCE TO BE ONE WITH HIM

(official source: A'nanda Vacana'mrtam Part 12 - this is part of the artilce.)

by Shrii Shrii Ananda Murti

Your mind wants to be one-pointed. So your mind must be in the form--in the state--of composure while doing your Sa'dhana', and in order to bring the mind to a state of composure you are to do--what?

You are to do Kiirtana. During Kiirtana what happens? The mind gets lifted, exalted, and as a result you will enjoy a particular nature of peace. And if you start your Sa'dhana' just after doing Kiirtana, you will enjoy bliss. So Kiirtana is a necessity, is an indispensable necessity for proper Sa'dhana'.

And what is Kiirtana? You are teaching your mind, you are teaching your ear, what you are saying with your vocal chord. What is that? To take only His name, and not so many names—London, Liverpool, Birmingham, Santiago. And there lies the speciality of Sa'dhana'. What is the meaning of Kiirtana? 'Ba'ba' Na'ma Kevalam'. 'Ba'ba' means 'the Dearest One'. Only the name of the Dearest One, only the name of Parama Purus'a, and not so many names—Helsinki or London or Santiago or Georgetown.

Now Parama Purus'a lies covert within your very "I feeling. There is "I feeling in each and every living being. "I am." "I exist." This type of "I feeling is present in each and every living entity.

And He is the central point of that 'I' feeling of each and every entity. He is the purest 'I' of your 'I' feeling. He is your great 'I', and Mr. X-y-z-a-b-c is your small 'I'. While you are doing Sa'dhana' on the Supreme Entity you are doing Sa'dhana' on your great 'I'. And the greatest 'I' is Ba'ba'. Ba'ba' means the Dearest One.

Now, you see that many people are under the impression that there is a Satan. No, there is no Satan. The Singular Entity, Parama Purus'a, plays with the universe with the help of His two forces, we may say two cardinal forces or two vital forces, and they are the demi-causal matrix. These two forces are the demi-causal matrix, and one force, the centripetal one, is known as 'Vidya", and the centrifugal one is known as 'Avidya". This Avidya' is Satan. Satan is not an independent entity, and it can never challenge the authority of Parama Purus'a. You take shelter, you try to ensconce yourself within the Supreme Entity; there will be no Satan before you; no Satan can challenge your authority. No Satan can challenge the authority of a devotee. Parama Purus'a, the Supreme Entity within you, will always help you, He will always help you. It is His duty to help you. So you are never alone, you are never helpless. And you are always with the Supreme Entity. You are the strongest personality of the entire universe. Don't be affected, don't be assaulted, by any complex-inferiority, superiority, defeatist, or any complex. You hail from the noblest family of the universe. Parama Purus'a is your Father.

... Are you sinners? Certainly not. You have the shelter of Parama Purus'a. Your past sins within you are now dead and gone.
